Take your first step to becoming a solicitor or barrister at ARU London.

Our course will qualify you for the next stage of your legal training. On the way, you'll learn skills that will give you a step-up in other careers, and you could be awarded a Higher Diploma in Paralegal Practice in addition to your degree.

This qualifying law degree, accredited by the Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA) and the Bar Standards Board (BSB), will allow you to progress to the vocational stage of training as a solicitor or barrister.

You'll study both academic and practical aspects of the law, which, as well as preparing you for a legal career, will give you many skills that are highly valued in other occupations. We encourage you to focus on your areas of interest and develop specialisms, such as family law, criminal law and procedure and/or civil law and litigation. In addition you will be supervised for your major undergraduate project on a legal subject of your choosing.

Associated careers

If you want to proceed to the vocational stage of training as a barrister or solicitor (Bar Professional Training Course or Legal Practice Course), this LLB is your first step. You might also choose to work in private practice as a paralegal, carrying out many of the tasks and roles of a qualified solicitor.

The skills you gain from this course will also open up opportunities for you in many other professions, including banking, commerce, local and central government and teaching.

Assessment

We'll assess your progress through a variety of methods from coursework, group assignments, activity-based assignments, and exams. You can expect to partake in on-going problem-solving activities, projects, and presentations. You'll also be able to access support material through our ARU Virtual Learning Environment (VLE).
